Note on Section A: Finding Aids

The installation of the Learning Commons in McWherter Library, which began in late Summer 2006, has caused considerable change in the physical arrangement of the Reference Room since the 2005 edition of this guide was prepared. Many reference materials have already been relocated and many others are subject to relocation. Some printed resources are being replaced by electronic resources. Every effort has been made to keep up with the changes, but the situation is in constant flux. This section therefore can only be regarded as preliminary. Parts of it may already be inaccurate and other parts may become inaccurate in the near future. While the confusion is regrettable, there simply was no way to accommodate the Learning Commons without giving up some of the space in the Reference Room.

The staff of the Reference Department is attempting to maintain complete records of relocated materials (the compiler thanks the staff for making these records available for the revision of this section), and you should feel free to ask for assistance in finding any works that you cannot find on your own.
